BACKGROUND

A two-day National Action Planning workshop, aimed at strengthening HIV and AIDS legal and regulatory frameworks, was hosted to bring together key stakeholders from government, civil society organisations, key populations and other stakeholders from around the Seychelles. The aim of the workshop was to agree on a work plan for law/policy reform, for capacity development and to agree on a mechanism for accountability.

The workshop received technical assistance from its partners, namely ARASA.

SEYCHELLES LEA

The Seychelles finalised its Legal Environment Assessment (LEA) in 2013, and progress in policy has been seen as a result of the recommendations of the LEA.

Based on its assessment of the legal and regulatory framework in the Seychelles in accordance with its own Constitution and with regional and international human rights commitments made by the Seychelles, public health and human rights evidence found in a review of relevant literature, the views of key informants and focus group discussions with selected populations, the 2013 Legal Environment Assessment calls for the enactment of the following protections in law for HIV²:

- Those provisions of immigration legislation and regulations that exclude migrant workers from employment or foreigners from residing in the Seychelles solely on the basis of their HIV status should be repealed and regulatory reform implemented to ensure that migrant workers and foreigners can access the same quality of HIV prevention, treatment and care services and commodities that are available to citizens.
- The Patents Act 1901 should be amended in order to comply with the TRIPS Agreement and include specific directives on utilising TRIPS flexibilities in relation to public health for increased access to good quality and affordable generic medicines
- Consideration should be given to reviewing the provisions in the Penal Code 1955 acting to prohibit aspects of consensual sex work with a view to repeal; and to using the public nuisance' laws to punish, penalise or harass sex workers as harm reduction measures
- Consideration should be given to amending the Misuse of Drugs Act to make provision for needle exchange and substitution therapy programmes as well as for the referral of drug offenders to effective rehabilitation programmes in place of imprisonment
- Attention should be given to ensuring that all prisoners are afforded access to acceptable, affordable and accessible quality HIV voluntary testing and counselling and prevention, treatment and care services
- HIV-specific laws that criminalise HIV transmission and exposure should not be enacted
- The law must protect and promote human rights in the context of HIV and AIDS and prohibit all forms of discrimination on the basis of actual or perceived HIV status

LEA PRIORITIES FOR THE NATIONAL ACTION PLAN

The following recommendations from the 2013 LEA were identified as priorities for the national action plan. The workshop further identified specific areas of action under these identified priorities.

- Enact and enforce law/s to protect and promote human rights in the context of HIV and AIDS and prohibit all forms of discrimination on the basis of actual or perceived HIV status. Protection from HIV-related discrimination should be included within any proposed HIV law; alternatively consideration should be given to the enactment of general anti-discrimination legislation, which includes HIV as a prohibited ground of discrimination. Existing human rights and constitutional guarantees should be enforced. The State may also wish to consider an amendment to the Constitution to include HIV as a prohibited ground of non-discrimination.

- Repeal those provisions of immigration legislation and regulations that exclude migrant workers from employment or foreigners from residing in the Seychelles solely on the basis of their HIV status (i.e. ensure that HIV and AIDS is not viewed as a “prescribed disease” in terms of the Immigration Decree and that HIV and AIDS is not viewed as a justifiable public health concern for excluding persons from Seychelles.

- Enact legislation to give legal effect to the provisions of the Policy on HIV and AIDS in the Workplace, including on the prohibition of HIV-related discrimination in the workplace.

- Enact law to protect against discrimination, violence and other violations of rights faced by sex workers in order to realize their human rights and reduce their vulnerability to HIV infection and the impact of AIDS. Anti-discrimination laws and regulations should guarantee sex workers’ right to social, health and financial services.

- Provide human rights based training programmes and services for ALL professionals across all sectors to avoid stigma, discrimination and promote enjoyment of the right to health

- Provide access for all prisoners, convicted and on remand, to acceptable affordable, accessible and quality HIV voluntary testing and counselling as well as prevention, treatment and care services including:

- Harm reduction programmes
- Rehabilitation programmes for prisoners who use drugs
- Information, education and communication

- Enact laws for children to provide for, amongst other things:

- The recognition of children as a vulnerable population in need of specific protection and targeted services, including ensuring women's access to prevention of mother to child transmission services
- Protection of children's rights to equality and non-discrimination on the basis of HIV and AIDS and equality in terms of access to health services, social services, inheritance and property rights
- Children's rights to access to age-appropriate HIV information, education and prevention services without discrimination
- Children's rights to access to treatment, care and support for HIV without discrimination, including care and support for children orphaned by AIDS
- The right to access independent and voluntary consent to HIV testing and to obtain related health care services when a child has the capacity to understand and appreciate so doing and the harmonization of the age of consent to sexual intercourse (15 years) with the age of consent to testing and treatment
- The provision of age-appropriate targeted services for young sex workers and young people who inject drugs

Note: The National Committee on Child Protection has agreed on the following: harmonisation of laws to align age of consent to sex and age of consent for reproductive health services at 16 years; 18 years for consent to marriage for both girls and boys. There is a need to carefully consider and cater for the implications of providing HIV test results to minors in the absence of parental consent or support.

- Law should provide for people with disabilities to ensure, amongst other things:

- Their recognition as a vulnerable population in need of special protection and targeted health care services
- The protection of the right to equality and non-discrimination on the basis of disability as well as on the basis of actual or perceived HIV status as well equality and non-discrimination in access to health care services, social services, employment and economic opportunity and other rights
- The protection of people with disabilities from violence, including sexual violence, and access to appropriate and timely health care services (including post-exposure prophylaxis) in the event of sexual assault
- Specific provision for the rights of people with disabilities to accessible and appropriate information and health care services, including HIV-related prevention, treatment, care and support and access to sexual and reproductive health care, without discrimination including information appropriate for people with disabilities (e.g. braille and audio).

An Annual Progress Report will be prepared by the chair of the Technical Committee to be submitted to the NAC Board and shared with the relevant national and international partners. Meetings will be held as per agreed schedule and will be coordinated by the NAC Secretariat.

RISKS AND ASSUMPTIONS

The main assumptions relate to Government's commitments to law reforms and the adequate resources to carry out extensive consultations with stakeholders and beneficiaries, as well as the participation of civil society in policy development. One of the main risks may be the lack of understanding of human rights promotion and protection principles for vulnerable and key populations affected by HIV and AIDS.

CROSSCUTTING ISSUES

Human rights and legal reform are the cornerstones of the programme. Equality and non-discrimination are fundamental issues underpinning the programme. The Attorney General's Office will have a key supporting role in drafting relevant legislation to be presented to the National Assembly for approval.

STAKEHOLDERS AND PROJECT BENEFICIARIES

The main stakeholders will be the Police, the Prisons, the Department of Legal Affairs, Immigration, Employment, Civil Society, State and Non State Actors, the Judiciary, the Legislature, social sectors, business sectors and members of institutions such as the Ombudsman, National Human Rights Commission and the Gender Secretariat.

The main beneficiaries are: persons affected by HIV and AIDS, young people, persons with disabilities, key populations such as migrant workers and their families, workers, sex workers, MSM and people who inject drugs and the prison population (on remand and convicted prisoners).

Capacity building will benefit the police, prison staff, civil society organisations, health workers, immigration and employment staff and members of the community and persons from related sectors.
